Personal Statement ::::::::

Students must respond to the question below fully and completely. Use your best writing skills, with legible penmanship. Proofread carefully. Some small learning communities use this as a sample of your writing skills. Other SLCs do not have a writing requirement and will NOT see this until after you have been selected into the SLC. However, all students are expected to complete the Personal Statement as a writing exercise.

In up to 250 words, what do you want SLC coordinators to know aboutyourself and your goals for high school or the future? (Think about including what you hope to learn from these SLCs, your favorite subjects at school, hobbies, communty service work, or your special interests and experiences.)

(In addition to the Personal Statement, you will need to do an in-class writing exercise; see your teacher for details.)
